

The source added that Fraser has never slept in the same house twice after he opened the case as "he is always on the run".

The Sunday Independent understands that Sikhakhane was one of the people who were allegedly targeted to be arrested, on bogus charges, linking him to the July unrest.

His brother's son, Phendula Sikhakhane, who was raised by the advocate and stays with him, was arrested and linked to the July unrest, but all charges against him were withdrawn this week.

"My whole family has been targeted and victimised because of my clients. I too was also supposed to be arrested and linked to the July unrest, just to tarnish my image and reputation," Sikhakhane said.

The source close to Fraser and Sikhakhane added that the two men had "vowed that they would die fighting than to die selling out the country".